Have Food to Donate? Bring It To The Library!

It used to be called Food for Fines, but we no longer have fines, so...Provisions for Prizes? We're still working on that. The bottom line is that we’re collecting food and supplies for local food centers.

From September 3 through September 21, drop off your non-perishable food items or supplies like paper towels, tissues, etc. to the Kendallville Public Library or its Limberlost Branch. If you donate five items or more, you’ll receive a Kendallville Public Library pen as a thank you. Plus, for every five items you donate, you can enter to win an Amazon Echo Dot (enter twice for 10 items, three times for 15, etc.).

All items donated will go to the Friendship Connection in Kendallville and Helping Hands Pantry in Rome City. Friendship Connection specifically has a need for low sodium items, low or no sugar canned fruits, peanut butter, canned tuna, chicken, or beef and boxed potatoes.

Items donated must be new, in their original packaging, and not past their due date.

I’ve lost a book...now what?

Evergreen Indiana offers some wonderful features for patrons, like the ability to get a book from any other participating library, but with so many different libraries and their policies involved, it can get a little confusing.

For instance, the Kendallville Public Library is fine free (on most items). That means that items checked out from the Kendallville Public Library or its Limberlost Branch won’t incur fines, even if the item borrowed is owned by a different library.

However, if an item is checked out at the Kendallville Public Library and then lost, the replacement of that item falls to the library that owned it. Here’s an example. Let’s say you requested a Marie Kondo book, but KPL’s copy was already checked out. Another Evergreen Indiana library had it available, so you requested that copy for pick up at KPL. It arrives, you check it out, and you find it inside your house. But you’ve been inspired to do so much cleaning and organizing that you can no longer find the book! Did you throw it away accidentally? Maybe it’s been organized in with your own books. You look but can’t find it. It may be time to admit it’s gone for good and make it right with the library.

The Kendallville Public Library’s policy is that you can pay for the book at the price we have listed for it in our online catalog. The other option, which can be a money-saver, is to replace it with an exact, new copy. Many times, retailers like Amazon have the same item at a cheaper price than what the library paid when it was originally purchased. Because of that, it’s OK with us if you order it from Amazon and bring it in. We waive the processing fee, and charges for the item are removed from your account.

The thing is...not all libraries have the same policy. The Marie Kondo book was owned by another library, not KPL, and that library may not offer the same options. Some libraries don’t waive the processing fee, and others will only accept payment for the book, rather than an exact copy.

No one wants to lose or damage a book, but it happens to the best of us. If you find yourself in that situation, check with the Kendallville Public Library staff before immediately finding a duplicate copy. We’ll work with you and the owning library to make sure that their policies are being followed. Then we’ll discuss your options with you.

The KPL staff wants to provide top-notch customer service to you, whether it’s your weekly visit to pick out new books, a quick trip to grab that game you reserved, or the more unexpected issue of a lost item. When in doubt, ask. That’s what we’re here for!

A Greyhound, A Groundhog
By Emily Jenkins
Jenkins plays with language and sound in this beautifully illustrated adventure about a greyhound and a groundhog. The “grey little round hound” and the “found little roundhog” chase each other “around and around and around and around,” resulting in a soft, pretty swirl of watercolors on the page.

This fast paced, energetic story is a perfect read aloud that shows how some sounds repeat themselves in different words.

Handle With Care: An Unusual Butterfly Journey
By Loree Griffin Burns
Follow a butterfly on its 2,000 mile journey from Costa Rica to the Museum of Science in Boston, where it will arrive in pupa stage and emerge for all to see after a couple more weeks. This wonderful new book highlights a blue morpho butterfly farm that raises butterflies to reintroduce into the forests in South America, and also to send around the world so that others can learn about them.

Up-close photographs, a glossary, further reading suggestions, and downloadable educational resources make this book a valuable part of learning about an animal’s life cycle.

Again, but Better
By Christine Riccio

When Shane Primaveri travels to London for a semester abroad, she wants to have a go at doing college right: She vows to be braver socially, but she’s lying to her parents about continuing her pre-med track when she’s really studying writing. The roommate-assigning fates gift Shane with instant friends, she meets a flirtatious boy named Pilot, and she excels in her classes. But her scary, controlling parents discover her deception, and Shane returns to America dejected.

Six years later, about to become a doctor, she still feels hollow and regretful. She looks up Pilot and they stumble back in time (as in Shane’s favorite TV show, Lost, the supernatural rules at play here are mismatched and vague). She helps a friend see through a jerk love interest but becomes subsumed in drama with the wishy-washy Pilot—until she realizes that she’s losing her chance at the redo she most wanted: to pursue writing for real.

Finale
By Stephanie Garber

Picking up just after the end of Legendary (2018), Garber continues to build the world of Caraval with a final installment, this time focusing equally on both Dragna sisters’ perspectives.

After they released their long-missing mother from the Deck of Destiny, Scarlett and Donatella hoped to rebuild their relationship and gain a new sense of family. However, Legend also released the rest of the Fates, and, much to their dismay, the Fallen Star—essentially the ur-Fate—is only gaining in power. As the Fates begin to throw Valenda into chaos and disarray, the sisters must decide whom to trust, whom to love, and how to set themselves free.

Earlier this year, the Kendallville Public Library developed a new service called Doorstep Delivery. It’s designed to get library materials to anyone who has difficulty making it to the library on a regular basis.

To participate in this Doorstep Delivery, simply call Adult Services Manager Leah Dresser at 343-2017 or email her at ldresser@kendallvillelibrary.org. You can also fill out an online application form at http://bit.ly/KPLDoorstepDelivery.

You can request anything in our regular collection (excludes newly-acquired books and DVDs). Once your request has been submitted, the library staff will provide you with a date and approximate time of delivery, and will take the items to your home.

Here are a few guidelines:

• This service will be available for patrons with Kendallville Public Library cards (prefix 27516) living in the KPL service area, which includes Kendallville, Rome City, Wayne Township, Orange Township and a small portion of Allen Township.
• Delivery is available up to two times per month per household.
• The library will provide check out receipts, but the patron is responsible for monitoring due dates and renewing items if needed.
• Library staff can’t leave the requested items at the door, and will attempt to re-deliver only once.
• Loan periods are two weeks for all items.

Get in touch today...we’re ready to bring the library to you!
