September 2017

Science Demos/Programs: We had our first science demo on September 2. I performed 3 different chemistry experiments geared around chemical reactions that create glowing effects. Everyone that was there for the program, and those that watched while just so happening to be in the library during the event, seemed to really enjoy the different experiments.

Digipalooza 2017 (OverDrive International User Group Conference): Another great Digipalooza Conference was put on by Team OverDrive. I gathered plenty of important information about ways to promote digital content and best user practices when using and buying digital materials. I look forward to putting these things into practice.

EContent Committee: I recently went to an eContent Committee meeting at the State Library in which the committee decided to take advantage of OverDrive's new Advantage Plus feature. This will allow purchasing libraries' patrons to have exclusive priority on the purchased materials for 3 months. Essentially digital content will now work like physical items in terms of other libraries' access.
