

Adult Services Report of the Librarian:

New Collections: We added clocks and metal art to our art print collection.

Winter Reading: We will have winter reading for adults starting January 2 and running through February 28th. Patrons need to complete ten activities out of those listed to receive a prize and a ticket for the grand prize of a Kindle Fire or an Echo Dot.

December was a little slow for programming. We had time off and vacations to accommodate. However, we had a successful winter party at Limberlost and a huge winter party at Kendallville with over 200 people.

We have scheduled extra in January to make up for being busy in December. I also started some outreach at Atz Place and we did fabric wreaths the first time. I will go again in January and make button art. It's a great way to share all the resources the library has with our community.

Our magazine room was painted and it looks great. The study rooms were also painted and we are waiting for chair rail to be installed in the largest of the study rooms. We have also changed it so that magazines only check out for one week to help with circulations.
