It's the Purrfect Month to Celebrate Cats!

The felines are flocking to the Kendallville Public Library! From Monday, October 14 through Friday, October 18, the Humane Society of Noble County (HSNC) is loaning us some of their cats and kittens for playtime. They'll be living in Room E on the library's lower level. We hope to have them available anytime during library hours, but sometimes the cats may be tired from playing with all their visitors and will need a short break.

Worried about your allergies? The cats won’t be in the main part of the library; instead, they’ll enter and exit the library through the lower level.

Right now, HSNC is caring for around 200 cats and kittens! That's why we’ll be holding an adoption event on Friday, October 18. More details are coming soon, but if you’re looking to add a feline to your family, this event would be a great time to do that.

We are also collecting donations to help HSNC care for all of the animals it serves. We will happily accept items for any animals, but here are some items that are needed specifically for cats:
- Frontline (for cats)
- Revolution (for cats)
- Litter
- Cat food
- Purina Kitten Chow (yellow bag)
- Purina Cat Chow (blue bag)

Want more to do to celebrate Catober? Check out our Sock Cat event for kids on Wednesday, October 16 and our family Cat House workshop on Monday, October 14 at 5:30 p.m.

Enjoy the Season with a Fall Reading Challenge

Let’s set the scene. You’re inside, looking out the window. Leaves are falling from trees with the breeze, and you can tell there is a chill in the air. A fire crackles behind you in the fireplace. You lift your mug of warm apple cider and enjoy feeling its warmth. What’s missing? That’s right...a book.

Keep reading this fall and be rewarded for it with the Kendallville Public Library’s Adult Fall Reading Challenge. From October 1 through November 15, pick up a BINGO card and complete activities to score a BINGO in any direction (horizontally, vertically, or diagonally). Many of the challenges surround reading, but some are activities like checking out a board game or DVD, stopping by the Genealogy Center for a little research, or attending an event.

When you get that BINGO, you’ll have your choice of a football stress ball, or a silicone card holder for your cell phone. Want one of each? You can earn up to two BINGOs per person! For each BINGO you earn, you’ll also receive an entry into the grand prize drawing for a $50 Amazon Gift Card!

New to The Cortex Kit Collection: LEGO Sets!

Love LEGO, but not so crazy about the cost (especially when you never play with them after they are put together)? Here’s a solution for that...check out a LEGO set from the Kendallville Public Library! We’re kicking off this new part of The Cortex Kit Collection with a Ship in a Bottle, and a Pop-Up Book.

Keep making & taking projects at the Kendallville Public Library and its Limberlost Branch

Betty’s Burgled Bakery

By Travis Nichols

Betty’s bakery has been burgled and the Gumshoe Zoo is on the case. The counters and cupboards were completely cleared of carrot cake, cornbread, and crackers. Will they find the fully fed, fiendish foe? Join the Gumshoe Zoo on this alliteration adventure.

Don’t Get Angry, Annie

By Lisa Regan

Annie is usually a very kind person, who loves playing with others and using her imagination. Sometimes though, Annie gets angry. She gets very frustrated when things don’t work the way she thinks that they are supposed to. Join Annie on her journey of trying to make calm choices. You Choose books provide excellent teaching moments between parent and child. They illustrate that everyone has choices to make throughout the day and the possible outcomes are endless. Maybe you can help Annie make the calm choices she needs to make.

Curriculum Connections: Cause and Effect, Family Structures, Making Comparisons, Predicting Outcomes, Problem Solving

All of Us With Wings
By Michelle Ruiz Keil
Xochi, a teen runaway, is contracted by 12-year-old Pallas and her polyamorous family to be their governess. The night of an after-party during the vernal equinox, Xochi and her charge conjure two fey children bent on punishing all who have wronged the older girl.
Debut author Keil paints San Francisco in both specific and broad strokes—the music scene, fashion, and lack of modern technology hint at a possibly historical setting. The worldbuilding falls somewhere between the dangerously thrilling and dark urban fantasies of Holly Black and the magic-infused, sweeping romances of Anna-Marie McLemore. The writing soars, especially at the sentence level, alternating effortlessly between past and present and the perspectives of multiple protagonists, including a bookstore cat with ties to the faery world. The secondary characters are multi-dimensional and bring their own storied pasts, which will draw readers to this loving and unconventional family.
The often flippant dialogue helps to break up some of the heavier, more painful, and rawer passages. Xochi’s reckless decisions, especially a taboo sexual relationship and high-chasing drug use, aren’t played for drama or effect—they exemplify a truly traumatized teen on the path to recovery and healing. Through risky and sometimes-empowering behavior, she learns to forgive and love herself.
